Basketball All-Star Game Plan

The basketball game will consist of two 18-minute halves. In the first half the clock will stop at 12 minutes and again at six minutes for substitutions. In the second half the clock will stop at 14 minutes, 10 minutes and 6 minutes.

The following format will be used. A playing system of four players with one spot used for free substitutions:

GROUP 1	GROUP 2	GROUP 3
A.	E.	I.
B.	F.	J.
C.	G.	K.
D.	H.	L.

The coaches will need to declare before the game and at half-time the three groups of player distinctions.

FIRST HALF

Playing time will be divided into three 6-minute sessions. Group 1 will play the first six minutes, Group 2 the second six minutes and Group 3 the last six minutes.

The fifth player of each session will be selected from the two groups not playing at the time. The free player may be substituted during a 6-minute period.

SECOND HALF

The same format will be followed in the second half, but using three 4-minute sessions. The last 6 minutes of the second half will be free substitution.

The assistant scorekeeper and the team monitors will need a list of the playing groups so they can monitor the substitutions being made.

IN CASE OF INJURY OR ILLNESS, one player from the groups may play in two of the sessions, or she may be substituted for during the half.

BE LEGENDARY

WE ARE SO PROUD OF YOU! DO THE WORK!

~CLYDE ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

~MOM, DAD, FAMILY & TEAMMATES

They call this softball. But really, it's a yellow threaded gift from God, that dares you to play the game. Somewhere between your heart and hard work you will find the thread that will unwrap the talent you didn't know you had. Develop the character you will always need and make teammates life long friends. So when you step out onto the field get a little more serious, get a little more dedicated and nobody stands in your way. Be fearless, believe in yourself, hustle, stay motivated but most of all be inspired! We're so proud of you Samantha!

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion. This increase is due to the fact that the number of children under 15 years of age has increased in every country in the world, and the rate of increase is particularly high in developing countries.

The increase in the number of children under 15 years of age has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are in need of education. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children under 15 years of age in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were in need of education. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children under 15 years of age in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were in need of education.

The increase in the number of children in need of education has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are out of school. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children in need of education in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were out of school. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children in need of education in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were out of school.

The increase in the number of children out of school has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are illiterate. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children out of school in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were illiterate. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children out of school in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were illiterate.

The increase in the number of children who are illiterate has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are unable to read and write. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children who were illiterate in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were unable to read and write. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children who were illiterate in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were unable to read and write.

The increase in the number of children who are unable to read and write has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are unable to find and use information. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children who were unable to read and write in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were unable to find and use information. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children who were unable to read and write in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were unable to find and use information.

The increase in the number of children who are unable to find and use information has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are unable to participate in the global economy. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children who were unable to find and use information in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were unable to participate in the global economy. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children who were unable to find and use information in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were unable to participate in the global economy.

The increase in the number of children who are unable to participate in the global economy has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are unable to improve their living standards. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children who were unable to participate in the global economy in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were unable to improve their living standards. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children who were unable to participate in the global economy in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were unable to improve their living standards.

The increase in the number of children who are unable to improve their living standards has led to a corresponding increase in the number of children who are unable to live a better life. In 1990, there were 1.1 billion children who were unable to improve their living standards in the world, and of these, 1.1 billion were unable to live a better life. In 2000, there were 1.5 billion children who were unable to improve their living standards in the world, and of these, 1.5 billion were unable to live a better life.
