

Cole McNanna – Sealy News

I'm originally from Milford, Massachusetts and graduated high school in 2014 before attending Curry College in Milton, Massachusetts where I studied multimedia sports journalism.

After getting cut from the baseball team I started working for the school paper and by the end of my time, I was the editor of the Currier Times and graduated as the journalism student of the year last May.

I moved to Sealy and started working at the beginning of this school year and have enjoyed my time in the lone star state so far but still have plenty of exploring left to do.