Basketball All-Star Game Plan

The basketball game will consist of two 18-minute halves. In the first half the clock will stop at 12 minutes and again at six minutes for substitutions. In the second half the clock will stop at 14 minutes, 10 minutes and 6 minutes.

The following format will be used. A playing system of four players with one spot used for free substitutions:

GROUP 1	GROUP 2	GROUP 3
A.	E.	I.
B.	F.	J.
C.	G.	K.
D.	H.	L.

The coaches will need to declare before the game and at half-time the three groups of player distinctions.

FIRST HALF

Playing time will be divided into three 6-minute sessions. Group 1 will play the first six minutes, Group 2 the second six minutes and Group 3 the last six minutes.

The fifth player of each session will be selected from the two groups not playing at the time. The free player may be substituted during a 6-minute period.

SECOND HALF

The same format will be followed in the second half, but using three 4-minute sessions. The last 6 minutes of the second half will be free substitution.

The assistant scorekeeper and the team monitors will need a list of the playing groups so they can monitor the substitutions being made.

IN CASE OF INJURY OR ILLNESS, one player from the groups may play in two of the sessions, or she may be substituted for during the half.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a vision of a new mental health system, which will be based on the following principles:

- People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals, with their own needs and wishes.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care and treatment.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes and communities.

These principles are reflected in the Mental Health Act 1983 (MHA) (1983, 1990) and the Mental Health Act 2003 (MHA) (2003).

The MHA 1983 (1983, 1990) was the first piece of legislation to give people with mental health problems the right to be treated in their own homes and communities. The MHA 2003 (2003) has further strengthened these provisions, and has introduced a number of new provisions, which are designed to improve the lives of people with mental health problems.

The MHA 2003 (2003) has also introduced a number of new provisions, which are designed to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. These provisions include the following:

- The right to be treated in one's own home and community.
- The right to participate in decisions about one's care and treatment.
- The right to be treated in a way that is least restrictive.
- The right to be treated in a way that is most likely to improve one's health and well-being.

The MHA 2003 (2003) has also introduced a number of new provisions, which are designed to improve the lives of people with mental health problems.

These provisions include the following:

- The right to be treated in one's own home and community.
- The right to participate in decisions about one's care and treatment.
- The right to be treated in a way that is least restrictive.
